At 50, Dorothy Wilhelm was a mother with six kids. She had no job skills and less than a year towards her college degree. She couldn't even drive on the freeway. And, she still had a battle with cancer ahead of her. At 80, she's seen it all and she's got plenty to share about the secrets of vibrant living. Hear Dorothy's laugh-filled and inspirational story of how she built her own business, became a radio/TV talk show host, and learned to drive anywhere she wants!

Dorothy calls herself a porcupine trainer – her term for sticky situations and prickly people in life. She believes we all handle porcupines every day, whether we want to or not. Dorothy uses creativity to solve problems and welcomes change with enthusiasm. She is a familiar Northwest personality and writes a newspaper column for the Tacoma News Tribune. Dorothy uses humor and practical strategies to encourage others to develop their own creative resources to manage life change and the second fifty years! Come be inspired, have fun, and laugh with Dorothy! Dorothy has waived her professional fee for the benefit of Friend to Friend America.
